

CULMINATING ASSESSMENTS

One requirement for a master's degree may include at least one of the following culminating assessments: passing a comprehensive exam, writing a thesis based on independent research, giving an oral defense of the thesis, or completing an appropriate special project or internship.